The Country for this Month:

A Few Details on Haiti

Haiti occupies the smaller western three-eighths of the island that it shares with the Dominican Republic. Haiti is the poorest country in the Western Hemisphere. Haiti is also one of the most deforested nations of the world. Poor agricultural practices, overgrazing, intensive demand for charcoal and scarcity of land are the leading causes. Unfair labor practices are prevalent in the country, and the majority of people are jobless. Only 60% of its population can read and write. Catholicism, Protestantism, and Voodoo make up the prevalent religions. Missionaries in Haiti:
